that by New Years contracts will begin to be let.

Our skating rink opened this week for the season with its old time relat. Its interest is undiminished.

Last night the Hon. Daniel Dougherty, of Philadelphia, opened the lecture course at the new Academy of Music, in a brilliant and entertaining lecture. His theme was coratory. Asa fine scholar, a graceful speaker and one well versed in the accomplishments and fascinating arts of oratory, Mr. Dougherty ranks deservedly high. He had a large and appreciative andience who cheered him to the echo. If he comes to Wheeling my advice to the people is, be sure and hear him.

Sure and near nim.

Our people are on the qui rire as to certain movements among the B.& O. officials. Yesterday the entire cabinet was here with their train of eight officers' cars, and remained several hours looking the ground over and evidently planning enterprises or improvements of some kind. The impression prevails that a new depot is contemplated, something sorely needed here, and that has been the subject of cabinet consultations among the officials of that road for many years past.

Thestaly's election proved a political dejection to Republicans hereabouts. Although the result was discernable in the political haroscope before Tucsday, yet the terrible flood was none the less sudden and mexpected. It was a flood in trath, a regular West India evelone, and it gathered impetus by reason of the rustling winds that came from every corner of the compass. The icebergs of Massachusetts, the evelones of Kanass and the siroccos of Carolina all seemed to meet in fraternal embrace to crush the old Republican ship by their contending fury. Is she crushed? Not by several degrees. She is badly careened and weather bruised, but her tiller is in place, her beams sound and her masts in position, and she only needs a master hand to take the helm for the cruise of 1884. As Daniel Webster said in his last speech in reply to Hayne, "When the mariner has been tossed for many days in thick weather and on unknown seas, he naturally avails himself of the first hill in the storm to consult his compass, and ascertain how far the elements have driven him from his course." It would be well for Republicans to adopt the prudence of the mariner, and ascertain where they are, and how they got there. It will not do to indulge in criminations and chargesof impolitic Stalwarts and rash Half-breeds, but rather, what's the cause of all this, and how can the evil be remedied. Unite! unite!! unite!! Let Salwarts, Bosses and Half-breeds be for-cuancax power be brought to the front, and gather about it those grand old cohorts that led it up to Grant, and who re-enfisted under faried, all be there; and let the efforts of the future be linked to the memories of the past. All is not lost. The Republican party commenced last Wednesnay morning to gather herself for fresh victories. The atmosphere had became murky and heavy, and a big thunder shower, was needed to clear away the poisonous vapors engendered by a twenty years' continuous residence in the governmental castle. One may philosophize until his hair is gray as to the causes of the late defeat, and then be no nearer the truth than when he began. The causes were many, but, as numerous as they are, they can all be traced back to the miserable assassin's pistol shot that robbed the nation of its head. Reflections over the past will bring profitable lessons for the inture. Let us bury our differences and animosities and present a solid front to the enemy, and as sure as the san shines the results of 1872 will be repeated in 'st. enemy, and as sure as the sun shines the cesults of 1872 will be repeated in '84.

GRINNELL. THE WOMAN QUESTION.

Braoke County Lady's Reflections of the Upshur County Lady's Views on the Editor of the Intelliger

BROOKE COUNTY, W. VA., November 11 -We have been interested in reading the article recently published in your paper entitled, "Woman's Rights and Wrongs, entitled, "Woman's Rights and Wrongs," and thank the lady of Upshur county for writing it. When will this much abused question cease to agitate the minds of the people? It is usually the idle, unoccupied people who have time to complain of and mammur at the existing state of affairs; who, neglecting their own obligations, seem by that means to consider themselves eminently qualified for the successful performance of the duties devolving upon some one else.

emmently qualified for the successful performance of the duties devolving upon some one else.

Is there nothing for woman to do, that she cries and struggles for her "rights" as those she were the most oppressed creature in the universe? We are a strong advocate of voman's rights, but fail to see the justice of usurping all the rights of man in addition to her own. In this advancing ninetenth century is woman the only blind and unprogressive factor, that she fails to recognize the rights and privileges God has bestowed upon her, and still chamors for an undefined allotment of "political rights". Her "rights" are lying close about her, the very air she breathes comes laden with a sense of responsibility and trust. They are distinct from those of man, because God gave them not the same kind of work, but each being the complement of the other, they, together, were designed to form one complete life. Man has gone to work shaping his little niche in the vast temple of eternity, and why need woman delay in making a faithful use of the latents entirested to her keeping.

other, they, together, were designed to form one complete life. Man has gone to work shaping his little niche in the vast temple of eternity, and why need woman delay in making a faithful use of the talents entrusted to her keeping.

Her work is preeminently domestic, but in its honest performance, she wields a power more potent than any number of ballots could confer upon her. Where could a woman find a more useful field of influence than in the sacred precincts of home? As wife, mother, daughter, sister, her influence is plainly visible, either as a bright, cheery presence, adding sunshine to the daily life, or as a cloud, obscuring the light. The moral atmosphere of home is in her keeping to make it what she pleases. To her is given the sacred charge of mondding the characters of those who are near and dear to her; of guiding, restraining and controlling the moral, mental and physical phases of stundy young lives rapidly pushing onward toward the goal of active manhood and womanhood. In the face of these multiplied duties can we ask for our rights? Do not the pitiable storics of dishonored young lives, to which our attention has so recently been called, point to a neglect of duty somewhere? Why are the gaming tables and other dens of vice so fascinating to our young men. Are our homes what they should be? Young blood is hot, impettous and seeks amusement; if it is not provided at home, rebreation will readily be found elsewhere. To say that interest is aroused only as the diversion acquires, a vicious tinge is shanderous; we believe there are hundreds of noble minded, high-spirited youths having a laudable ambition, who would resent such an accusation.

Napoleon recognized woman's power when he said that the surest way to purify when he said that the surest way to purify
